Volunteer Spotlight

November 2010

Jaime Caban

Jaime has only been volunteering with the Center for 9 months, but he has already become a staff and client favorite! Behind that reserved demeanor are years of experience working with diverse individuals and organizations working towards various causes. He is described by Center staff and fellow volunteers as friendly, punctual, personable, and patient. These and his commitment to provide assistance to the Cyber Center users make Jaime a great role model and ambassador of the Center to the community. We are fortunate to have Jaime as part of our Cyber Center team!

What brought you to The Center?

After more than 10 years volunteering with Shanti I felt it was time for a change and I always believe in volunteering with my community and the Center represents my community.

Where do you volunteer and why do you volunteer at this particular team?

I volunteer at the Cyber Center because I have good computer skills I thought I could share with others.

What excites you about volunteering for The Center?

I believe it's important to give back to my community and The Center allows me to do this within the scope of my availability.

Do you have any memorable and/or favorite experience volunteering with The Center?

Training at the Center was comprehensive and made me feel comfortable about my volunteer commitment. Since working in the Cyber Center, I have seen first-hand how important computer and Internet access is to those who may not have such a luxury elsewhere in their lives.

Do you wish to share anything else about volunteering at the Center?

Volunteering at the Center is like joining an extended family. When the front line staff welcomes me by name I know I'm right where I belong.
